THE BITTER GETS BITTEN

Mayor McGeer, of Vancouver, has been a vociferous advocate for a compulsory reduction in the interest rate on all Vancouver bonds. But Premier Aberhart, of Alberta, has got ahead of him. He has put his interest reduction policy into effect and Vancouver happens to be holding quite a number of those Alberta bonds.

The other day I was talking to a churchman who is a generous contributor to the missionary work of the church. He also was a holder of some of the Alberta bonds. "Alberta churchmen," he said, "appeal to the East for help. Then they rob us of our bond interest. It is not exactly encouraging."—The Northern Observer.

SOME 378,000 REGISTER

Word comes from Edmonton that in the neighborhood of 378,000 in Alberta have signed for Social Credit dividends. The people of the province were just that much closer to receiving the dividends from the Aberhart government.

All over the province registrations were the order of the day and closed Wednesday, not to be reopened till next June. It was a voluntary census of men and women over the age of 21 who desired monthly credit dividends.

RADIO STATION FOR COLEMAN

Lieutenant J. H. Eamon, of the R. C.S., who is assisting in carrying out tests of the Lethbridge radio beacon in connection with the resumption of the trans-Canada air mail service, told the Herald that a broadcast station on a radio beacon wave length has been located at Coleman. It will be used in experiments with the radio compass homing device in the Lockheed Electra of Canadian Airways, Ltd., which is being used in the tests.

At Coleman, as well, has been established a short wave transmitter and receiver for voice communication with the aircraft. Quartermaster Sergeant S. H. Yelland is in charge of the Coleman station. Two other members of the Signal Corps are also stationed there—Lethbridge Herald.

Praise for the increase in business resulting from circulation of Alberta Prosperity Certificates was contained in a letter from J. D. Manners, manager of the Vermilion Co-operative Association, stating that the association's cash receipts for August were $1,200 higher than the best month's business previously. They had accepted all that were offered, passed no one to take them, and almost doubled business. Mr. Manners stated that their principal cause of worry was that if this small issue of bonds improves and increases buying power so much when the people begin to use their own credit through the state credit house dividend issue, where are we going to get the help to handle the increased business?

BELLEVUE CARRIES HONORS AT SCHOOLS TRACK MEET

Bellevue again came out high-liners in the annual district inter-scholastic track meet, held at the Blaimore Stadium last week. Gaining 219 points, Bellevue athletes appeared to be better trained and predominated in nearly all events, capturing a majority of first and second places and winning both the senior and junior shields.

Hillcrest school attained second place with 129 points, Blaimore third and Coleman fourth.

Senior medals, silver, awarded to those obtaining the most points in the meet, were awarded to Bob Emerson, of Coleman, and Dorothy Costick, of Bellevue; while junior medals went to H. Marcolin, of Bellevue, and L. Snyder, of Coleman. Bronze medals were awarded to R. Rose, of Bellevue; M. Faintin, of Bellevue; J. Corman, of Coleman, and E. Seaman, of Hillcrest.

The meet was postponed last spring on account of an epidemic of scarlet fever.

THE NEW STREAM-LINED CANADIAN PACIFIC "CHINOOK"

Last Saturday we were a guest passenger of the Canadian Pacific Railway company on their new semi-stream-lined train. The company gave us a delightful trip from Cranbrook to Fernie, on behalf of the Cranbrook Courier. Aside from the train crew and officials, we were the only passengers. In our newspaper career, never did we have such distinction shown us, and we must hand it to Hugh Campbell, the genial press representative of the company, for the many courtesies shown. In selecting Campbell as its ambassador of goodwill, the railway company has certainly made no mistake.

This new train is well named the "Chinook," for it floats along the rails like the breath of spring—sephyr, as it were. Of course there were a few things we missed. That indoor sport of opening the windows, or attempting to, can not be indulged in, and we can no longer gaze up at the elaborate lighting fixtures on the ceiling or watch the sway of the bell-cord. Then on the engine all those fancy doodads have a covering like a horse blanket. No sand dome in sight, no bell that used to turn completely over at times, no brass whistle and no headlight that set out like a birdcage in front. And the old-style cowcatcher is gone, being replaced by a sort of sheet-metal bulb. But all in all, she is a beautiful machine and the eye is charmed with its pleasing outline—Fred J. Smyth in Cranbrook Courier.

We can't understand why Edmonton city is still at law over the Prosperity Bond business, for it has already been demonstrated that the people don't approve of that method of financing. In answer to a question during the special session of the Legislature a cabinet minister was quoted in the Calgary Albertan, the one true paper in the Province, as saying, in effect, "it more than twenty thousand dollars of the bonds are returned for redemption upon the first redemption date, I would consider the scheme a failure." According to the Calgary Albertan of this week more than $140,000 of the bonds were returned for redemption and "government members were enthusiastic over the success of the scheme." Somebody failed to measure human nature when the Prosperity Bond scheme was organized. A non-depreciable bond that could have been used in payment of government commitments would have had a chance to survive. The government could have kept them in circulation by using them to pay a certain percentage of civil service salaries. The idea had merit, but the method was faulty—Claresholm Local Press.

EIGHTY-NINE YEARS YOUNG

Congratulations were on Saturday last extended to Capt. W. A. Beebe upon his attaining his eighty-ninth birthday. On that day "Cap" looked as hale and hearty as any other youngster, and should be plenty fit for some more years yet.

"Cap" may be looked upon as the father of this district—a real pioneer, a man with considerable foresight in the early days when the C.P.R. were wending their steel westward through the Crows' Nest Pass, and who has stayed with it till now.

We join with the many friends of Cap's in wishing him sufficient strength to weather the way to at least the century mark.

DEATH OF MRS. HOLLOWAY

A well known resident of the Crows' Nest Pass district, where she had resided for some seventeen years prior to moving to the city in 1924, Mrs. Marion Holloway, aged 66, wife of Joseph Holloway, died at the family residence in Calgary on Tuesday morning, following a lengthy illness.

Born in Cambridge, England, the late Mrs. Holloway had resided at Blaimore and Frank before moving to Calgary in 1924. While occupying what is known as Blossomwood Ranch, north of Frank, and formerly the property of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Drumm, Mrs. Holloway figured largely in the capture of Bassoff, one of the trio connected with the holdup of a passenger train at Sentinel, in which Conductor Jones (still on the job) was robbed of cash and his watch, together with the victimizing of other persons on the train. Bassoff went to the gallows, leading up to which was the fact that Mrs. Holloway had handed him provisions from her home, not aware at the time that he was wanted by police.

Surviving are her husband; a daughter, Mrs. J. L. Wilson; a son, Walter, all of Calgary; and a sister, Mrs. Fred Lepidevin, in Montreal. Funeral services were conducted at St. John's Anglican church, Calgary, yesterday afternoon, and the remains were laid to rest in the Burnside cemetery.

IMPROVED DIABETES

A new solution of crystalline insulin has been announced by the American Medical Association as an improved treatment for diabetes. The Association's journal says the new solution will have the advantage of having a slower and more prolonged effect on sugar, something that doctors have long sought after.

Successful use of the treatment is asserted by two physicians, Dr. Paul Main and Dr. Clarence J. McMullen. Where two or more doses of insulin have been required each day, one daily large dose of the crystalline insulin was sufficient.

Dr. Melville Sahyuan, Detroit, is said to be the developer of the new drug which may prove a boon to diabetes sufferers the world over.

Jasper Park has been chosen for the 1937 meeting of the Macaulay Club, organization of star salesmen of the Sun Life Assurance Co. of Canada, of which C. J. Tompkins, of Blaimore, is a member. The club held its last meeting in Jasper in 1930, and this year at St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, New Brunswick.

DEATH OF ROBT. SUTHERLAND

Robert Sutherland passed away at an early hour on Sunday last, following an illness of several months. Of late he appeared to be improving, and only last week was able to be out and walking the street. A relapse took place and the end came.

Deceased was born in Dorchester, New Brunswick, on January the 8th, 1906, and for the past few years was employed with the West Canadian Collieries at Greenhill mine as a fan-man. He had been active in boys' work at the United church, and was also a member of the choir.

Surviving are his wife, Mabel, in Blaimore; his father in Bellevue; a sister in Vancouver, and two sisters and a brother in High River.

Funeral service was held in the United church on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. A. E. Larke officiating, and the remains were laid to rest in the Blaimore cemetery.

VERDICT ACCIDENTAL DEATH

An inquest into the cause of death of Joseph Kubasek, Bellevue miner, was held at Bellevue on Saturday last, with Dr. George Johnson, of Calgary, coroner, presiding. The following verdict was returned by the jury, comprising G. Key, foreman; John Faintin, John Hruby, Benjamin Marosek, W. Duncan and A. M. Fraser:

"We, the jury, find that Joseph Kubasek, of Bellevue, came to his death in the Holy Cross hospital at Calgary on Friday, September 25th, at 12 a.m., as a result of shock. The shock was due to injuries received by a fall, piece of coal while at his regular duties as a miner in the Bellevue mine on Monday, September 21st, at approximately 9.15. According to the evidence submitted, we find no blame can be attached to anyone."

FORMER BLAIRMORE RESIDENT PASSES IN NEWFOUNDLAND

Word has been received of the death of William James Budd, which occurred at St. John's, Newfoundland, on Monday, where he had been holidaying.

The late Mr. Budd was active in the company which built the cement plants in East Calgary, Marlboro and Blaimore, two of which are now in ruins. He came to Alberta in 1905 and saw the Calgary plant constructed in 1906. That company was known as the Alberta Portland Cement Company, and shale for that industry was brought in from Okotoks. In 1914 the Calgary plant was closed down and Mr. Budd moved to Blaimore as manager of the Rocky Mountains Cement Company. From Blaimore he went to Marlboro, near Jasper; and from there to the Pacific coast, taking up residence in Vancouver. He was a native of Ontario.

While in Blaimore he had to do with the laying of the town's present water system, and the erection of the present reservoir to replace the old Lake dam.

James Kemp, a member of the Kimberley Dynamiters' hockey team, shortly to leave on an exhibition tour of Europe, was in town the early part of the week, accompanied by his wife.

And here's how we are going to look if Mr. Aberhart treats us properly and gets over what is commonly looked upon as a dictatorship.

So we can now move to the front page

FIGHTING SLEEPING SICKNESS

Dr. John Denoon, son of the late Dr. A. H. Denoon, of Lethbridge, and Mrs. Denoon, has taken a keen interest in sleeping sickness in far-away Africa. Since qualifying as a medical practitioner, Dr. Denoon has served as Dominion government physician and surgeon with the Grand Banks fishermen. A year or so later he was with the war office as medical officer to an expedition in Egypt, and later to the Congo. Now he is physician in charge of an area of 7,000 square miles in West Africa, the heart of the sleeping sickness country, where he is engaged in research work, fighting the disease that is decimating the people. He has two hospitals and five dispensaries scattered through his field, months apart by foot. Three weeks each month he is travelling, almost all walking. Out of his pay he donates ten guineas regularly, hoping that it will finance some other young university man to extend the college's work. That ten guineas will finance a whole season's work in a construction camp, when Colin E. Campbell, of Hamilton, Ontario, another university graduate, comes into the college office. Campbell has never met John Denoon.

Gordon Cummings, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Cummings, of Vancouver, formerly of Fernie, died at Abercorn, Northern Rhodesia, on Monday last week. He was born in Fernie and spent his childhood there.

A. B. Cook is being prominently mentioned as the new coach of the Drumheller Miners' hockey team. As a member of the famous Taber Chiefs, Cook knows his hockey. And, incidentally, he was one of Canada's great lacrosse players, starting his lacrosse and hockey career back in Southampton.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Intending to travel to London, England, and join the British navy, Francis John Savage, 15-year-old Edmonton boy, has left Edmonton.

All French children between nine and 14 are now enrolled for instruction in the fundamentals of aerobatics.

John "Red" Kelly, 32, former prominent hockey player, died in hospital at St. Boniface, Man., after a lengthy illness.

Philatelists have detected flaws in the new King Edward VIII stamps issued in the United Kingdom. Marvin Wolf, member of the St. Lawrence Stamp Club said.

Ernest Bakewell, member of the British Columbia legislature for MacKenzie, handed in his resignation from membership in the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation of British Columbia.

Susan R. Anthony, suffrage pioneer whose likeness is to appear on a new U.S. postage stamp, is the second woman so honored. The first was Martha Washington, wife of the first president.

A special vegetarian menu served as a place card for Bernard Shaw at a testimonial dinner in London given to H. G. Wells in honor of his 70th birthday. Five hundred persons attended.

The British government collected $606,754 ($4,845,770) in inheritance taxes from the estate of the late Sir Henry Wellcome, explorer, scientist and pharmaceutical pioneer and magnate, which totaled £2,138,959 ($10,694,795).

One thousand five hundred troops, part of the 15,000 reinforcements ordered to Palestine to aid in quelling Arab terrorism, embarked on the steamship California for the Holy Land. The troops were the second battalion the West Yorkshire regiment and the second battalion the Hampshire regiment.

Coronation Ceremonies

Question Is Raised As To Whether Queen Mary Will Attend

The question whether Queen Mary will attend the coronation of her son, King Edward VIII, next May is being discussed with some animation. The answer seems to lie entirely in the personal desires of Queen Mary and His Majesty.

There is no precedent in England for a widowed queen attending the coronation of her husband's successor but amongst members of the royal family of the present and immediately preceding generation precedent often has been followed.

Queen Alexandra, widow of King Edward VII, did not attend the coronation of King George V. and Queen Mary in 1911, although there was talk at the time that her absence was solely against her own will.

The present position is somewhat different, as there is no queen consort to the crown.

Must Take Periodical Rest

Workers Who Fill Radium Needles Have Tiring Job

If you had to take three months' rest with pay every time you worked three months, wouldn't you like it? Maybe yes, and maybe no. Not if you had a job filling needles with radium. The workers have to stand behind lead screened cases, into which only their hands go. Minute particles of radium salts are coaxed into small, preformed constructed needles. These are later used for implantation in diseased tissues.

"The person who waits 24 hours or more in a theatre queue," says an essayist, "is usually regarded as something of a figure of fun." A sort of standing joke, in fact.

Two Sides To Story

Human Body Not Fitted For Modern Cruise For Speed

Four thousand miles, from New York to Central Europe, in five days! That was the record achieved by the recent test in which a specially-chartered Imperial Airways air-liner met the liner, Queen Mary, at Cherbourg, and flew with a party of passengers via Paris, Munich and Vienna to Budapest. As soon as the ocean liner reached Cherbourg, the party which were to make the 1,020-mile flight to Budapest were conveyed by motor launch to the aerodrome where the air-liner was waiting.

Within an hour and a quarter they were in Paris, a distance of 209 miles. Zurich, 306 miles, was reached at lunch-time. In less than an hour they reached Munich, then on to Vienna and Budapest, at a speed reaching 170 miles an hour. A radio-telephone service now enables passengers by air, sea or land to keep in touch with each other and with the world. Government officials flying along Empire routes can receive and send messages while they travel.

Business heads can keep in touch with their headquarters throughout the journey. But there is another side to all this story of ever-increasing speed. The human body was not built for working or playing at the rate suggested by this way of living.

Circumstantial Evidence

British Author Gives Reason For Dismissing Rumor About King Edward's Marriage

Renewed rumors that King Edward VIII of England would get married, maybe to Princess Irene or Princess Catherine, sisters of King George II of Greece, was indignantly dismissed by John Drinkwater, noted British author who writes a weekly piece about Edward for a London magazine.

On the subject of the King's marriage Drinkwater writes: "We have reasonable circumstantial evidence that the King at present is contemplating no such step. His new suite at Buckingham Palace, in the preparation of which he has taken elaborate care, is designed for the accommodation of his existing bachelor establishment. That in itself should be an indication of his intentions."

Drinkwater continues: "If the King decides to marry, official announcements will be made immediately. Anyone outside the King's family circle professing to have inside information is not worth listening to."

His Favorite Song

King Edward Requested Three Encores in Vienna Club

King Edward has a favorite song—and it deals with the rustic life of Austrian peasants.

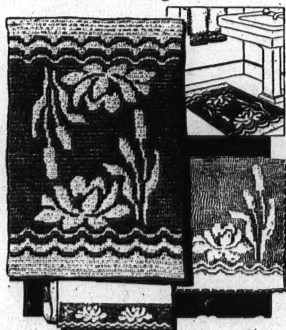

His Majesty heard the song in a night club in Vienna and requested three encores after which he tipped the performer liberally.

"That's my favorite song," he said. The song, in dialect, refers to the lower Austrian village of Langenlaas, near Vienna.

To Fight Jap Menace

Russia Is Building In Secret A New Submarine Flotilla

Russia is concentrating a new and secret submarine flotilla at Vladivostok, reliable sources disclosed—to guard against the possibility of attack from Japan.

The submarines are the "mystery fleet" of the Pacific. They are unlisted in regular naval manuals. No prying eyes are permitted to fathom their design.

Soviet officials admit no specific number. Informed sources estimate that between 40 and 50 submarines are stationed there. Japanese sources state 80 are based within the Vladivostok area.

The submarines are new, small and easy to conceal, capable of quick manoeuvres—this much is known, observers say.

They are believed intended chiefly for defensive purposes because of their small size. They are subject to no restrictions or treaties, however, because the Soviets retained a free hand on construction in the Pacific.

Intended for the Pacific, informants related, they were manufactured in European Russia. Knocked down for delivery they were transported 5,000 miles to secret shipyards at Vladivostok, these informants continued, and assembled.

New personnel is being trained constantly to handle the craft as their numbers increase, it was learned.

The Soviets have no capital ships, cruisers or destroyers in the Pacific, it was stated. But an army estimated at 500,000 men is stationed in the far eastern territory to back up submarine and aerial defenses.

Have Real Tunnel

Engineering Students At Oklahoma Can Test High Winds

University of Oklahoma engineering students will have a chance this school year to find out things about a 200-mile-an-hour wind.

A new tunnel, eighty-five feet in length is near completion on the campus. A 400-horsepower engine, using natural gas as fuel, will drive the wind through the steel tunnel so research workers at the other end can find out what happens under certain conditions.

Works Progress Administration technicians constructed the tunnel at a cost of $16,000. It was designed primarily for research in aerodynamics.

It will be used in testing the wind resistance of airplanes, automobiles, trains and boats, according to Joseph Linton, associate professor of mechanical engineering. Addition of the tunnel to the school's facilities will enable it to offer new courses in airplane testing and aerodynamic research.

Acted As Guide

Duchess Of York Once Discharged Duties Of Maid

H.R.H. the Duchess of York knows in minute detail the history of ancient Glamis Castle, where she spent most of her happy girlhood and once used her knowledge to play a practical joke. A short while before her marriage, when a party of Americans visited Glamis, she borrowed a maid's cap and apron and discharged the duties of guide so admirably that the visitors were delighted.

Little guessing the true identity of the "maid," they tendered her a very handsome tip, which she was compelled to accept in order to keep her secret.

Something Worth Guarding

Democracy Protects People And Gives Them Every Freedom

Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner in London, told members of the Canadian Club at a luncheon meeting in Toronto that the trend in Europe brings home the fact to British peoples that democracy was not just a textbook word.

While the democratic form of government has been thrown overboard in countries where it was given a half-hearted trial, and tendencies are either to the extremes of either right or left with dictatorship following in the wake, it is noteworthy that in those countries under the British flag by the people and for the people "is more jealously guarded than ever."

The British Empire and the United States still represent the main bulwark against undue curtailment of liberty. The freedom we enjoy is something that cannot be valued too highly.

We have religious liberty, freedom of the press, a generous measure of free speech. Moreover, when a government isn't doing what it should, we elect another in its place to carry out the will of the people. Isn't that a combination of privileges worth while guarding jealously?—Kitchen Record.

Treasures From Japan

Precious Objects Being Loaned For Exhibition In Boston

Two of the great cultural institutions of the United States, the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and Harvard University, have been honored by the Japanese Emperor.

As a tribute to these educational centres, Japan is allowing the exhibition in Boston of some of her priceless art treasures. The exhibit is to continue until October 25.

Besides the examples of painting and sculpture on loan from the Imperial Household and Japanese museums and art schools, there are many valuable Japanese art treasures owned by the Boston Museum.

It was because of the great interest the museum of the arts has shown in Japanese art for more than 50 years, and because of the treasures of Harvard that the treasures were allowed to come to Boston as a tribute of the Japanese people.

The collection consists of 136 objects. They represent the finest in Japanese art from the beginning of Buddhist art in Japan in the seventh century to the close of the Tokugawa period in the middle of the nineteenth century.

What is said to have been the greatest calamity in history was the Black Death, a pestilence which spread over Asia, Europe and northern Africa in the 14th century, and took the lives of 87,000,000 people.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

OCTOBER 4

THE SPREAD OF CHRISTIANITY

Golden text: Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all the nations. Matthew 28:19.

Lesson: Acts 15:36, 18:15; Romans 15:19-21.

Devotional reading: Hebrews 11:8-10.

Explanations and Comments

The First Converts in Europe, Acts 16:15. There could have been no synagogue in Philippi, or Paul would have gone there on the Sabbath. Beyond the city limits by the river there was a place of prayer, and thither Paul turned his footsteps to meet a company of women, among them Lydia, a prosperous merchant from Thyatira, who dealt in purple-dyed garments. She was a Jewish proselyte, for it is said of her that she worshipped God. Paul gave his message to these women, and the Lord "opened" her heart to give heed unto the things which were spoken by Paul, and she believed the good news, and with her household was baptized.

Lydia besought the missionaries to make her house their headquarters, and this they did. Hospitality was always a marked characteristic of the early church. (Peter 4:9; Romans 19:13; 1 Timothy 5:10; 3 John 5:12.)

Paul's Pioneer Work, Romans 15:19. Moffatt's translation makes these verses clearer: "I will not make free to speak of anything except what Christ has accomplished by me in the way of securing the obedience of the Gentiles, by my words and by my deeds, by the force of miracles and marvels, by the power of the Spirit of God. Thus from Jerusalem right round to Illyricum across Asia Minor and the Aegean to Illyricum beyond Beroea, I have been able to accomplish what I have been sent to do."

Paul seemed like a tent-maker of the desert, who had no money to begin to weave a piece of canvas and had got the pattern of warp and weft prepared in his place to carry away—to start again and to be interrupted once more. How futile it seemed, what really happened was that instead of Paul completing his tent at one place, he left at one place after another men and women who had caught his pattern and his plan and would work it out after he had left them. He was the scout and pioneer on perilous work ahead of the main army; the heroic pioneer missionary! (Basil Mathews).

Home Rule For India

Provincial Autonomy To Come In April, 1937

The Marquess of Linlithgow, viceroy of India, said in his initial address to both houses of the Indian legislature that the stage was set for provincial autonomy in April, 1937. He said there was a strong probability the transitory period between that achievement and the inauguration of federation in India would be of short duration.

The government of India bill, passed through the British parliament in 1935, provided for these changes.

Appraising this prospect, the new viceroy said: "It is the more impressive by reason of its contrast with the ominous background of the contemporary world. While in Europe has arisen an array of dictatorships, Great Britain and India are about to initiate an experiment in representative government which for breadth of conception is without a parallel in history."

Airways Traffic Control

United States Uses Radio To Avoid Congestion In Air Lines

Traffic cops have finally taken over the United States sky lanes. It hasn't reached the no-parking stage yet, but the bureau of air commerce is rapidly setting up an airway traffic control system which directs "planes as the policeman at the corner houses autoists."

Each station has a large map showing the air routes in and out of airports. A couple of men study maps, ear-phones over their heads and their eyes fixed on a sea of tiny wooden tabs representing ships.

Along half a dozen routes, measured in inches instead of miles, "planes move at various rates of speed."

One of the watchers sees six "planes moving on an airport within a few minutes of one another. Methodically he takes charge of the situation."

By radio he pushes the nearest one down to a lower level, the next to a level a little higher, than the rest, the third to a still higher level and so on. If this is not sufficient to avoid congestion, he reduces the speed of one or two.

Nagging Will Cause Sickness

Medical Research Council Reaches This Decision After Survey

A higher sickness rate is likely to prevail in offices where the atmosphere is fretted with nagging than in those where a harmonious atmosphere exists, the British Medical Research Council has concluded after a survey.

"The general attitude of growing among workers is a good medium for the cultivation of disease germs," the Council states. "When employees feel they receive justice and consideration there is mental environment that will prevent the easy yielding to every chance of sickness."

One case quoted is that of a company employing a number of stenographers doing the same work. It was found that during a recent influenza epidemic most of the girls in one office were away sick, while in another there were few absent. The head of the first office was declared to be a petty nagger, while the head of the other was a person with a sunny disposition.

A Dangerous Plaything

Many Children Have Been Blinded By Toy Guns

The air-gun or B.B. gun and the sling-shot, so coveted by boys and so freely advertised by certain con-scientious business houses, are responsible not only for the death of hundreds of beautiful and useful birds, but for sad and permanent injuries to others. A circular issued by the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers states that in one institution for the blind, there are 300 children who will never see again because their eyes were put out by toy guns.—Our Dumb Animals.

The death's head moth, now rarely seen, emits squeaks almost as loud as those of a mouse. 2170

Thou Shalt Not Love

A NOVEL BY
GEORGIA GRAIG

Advance notices had been plentiful and alluring about the event at which "Play-Girl," was to make her debut, take off her mask, as it were, and face the world she had flouted. She had been living in New York for some time, the newspapers discovered—with the help of Michael Fairbourne in charge of the Tarrance Publishing Company's publicity department—and because she had become the most-talked-of, and up to then, retiring, of all anonymous celebrities, it was fitting that she should come out of that retirement with a flourish of publicity trumpets.

Everybody was curious about "Play-Girl." Some insisted that she would be discovered to be some sex-starved and disappointed old maid who had soothed her repressions through the imagery of her book. Others voted for a black divorcee, several were openly mentioned—while still others insisted there was no "Play-Girl" at all (they got it from authentic sources, of course) but that the whole book was a symposium of collected experiences which had been ghosted by the firm's own Beatrice Fairfax who was, they were assured, fast and well paid fifty with several quite up and coming grandchildren. It was not until one to believe that there really existed in the flesh any young and beautiful woman who could have stinned as violently as "Play-Girl" and then cold-bloodedly and analytically have written about her experiences, playing with them with the same skill that a surgeon exhibits in wielding a scalpel.

At all events, it was inevitable that everyone wanted to be among the first to see "Play-Girl" when the Tarrance Company introduced her to an eagerly awaiting public.

On the night of Starr's debut, therefore, the grand ball room at Pierre's was crowded. Everybody who was anybody socially, and modern enough to be seen where "Play-Girl" was seen, was there. Hol pol would get their chances later, and have an opportunity to chase after her when she went to theatre and night clubs, pressing upon her their autograph books as though she were a movie celebrity. In fact, before "Play-Girl" made her appearance, she was more exploited than any cinema star, for while they only wanted the emotions of stories, "Play-Girl" had lived hers. And still lived to tell the story.

With all the fanfare preceding her, Starr made a poised, effective entrance the night of her debut, descending the steps from the balcony to the ballroom, scarlet-tipped fingers resting lightly on the arm of Michael Fairbourne.

Her gown was a seductive sheath of clinging black chiffon velvet, daintily cut, a startling foil to the misty pallor of her face. She had been sitting on one of her low chairs beside an inlaid table when Michael had come for her and he had stared. Starr recalled how he had shaded his eyes, looking at her, surveying her from her cloud of black hair to the table edge. She had asked him, at the surprised look in his eyes: "D-d-don't you like my frock?"

And Michael: "It was just looking for it."

It was that kind of debut frock, a daring modiste's triumph.

Her face, with the camellia skin, was as perfect as a cameo carved out of ivory. Her mouth was a painted, scarlet smile. The long black eyes—so perfect to carry out all those stories about her royal Egyptian ancestry—were as deeply mysterious as those of any pharaoh, and with a soft mass of unrestrained, cloudy black curls added an oddly naive note to a picture of worldly sophistication. The one touch of color was the enameled necklace and bracelet which at a glance appeared of fabulous worth as antiques.

"That was how Starr Ellison looked on the occasion of her debut into the glittering night life of New York, highly social, or otherwise, Starr Ellison, the infamous "Play-Girl!"

A long murmur of interest that all held a touch of awe greeted the arrival of the astonishingly lovely young woman who had at last cast off her anonymity in a sensed-out burst of publicity. It broke immedially into little individual murmurs.

From the men:

"Gorgeous!"

"I'd like to meet her!"

"I've got to meet her! No long distance worshiping for me!"

"Snappy number, eh, what?"

"If there's a good Egyptian sample, no wonder old Marc Antony went haywire!"

From the women:

"Brazen hussy!"

"You wouldn't think she'd dare to come here or any place else with the reputation she's got!"

"As if it isn't had enough to have lived the kind of life she's lived without writing her experiences for everybody to read!"

"I can well believe that about her Egyptian blood. They're always been decadent, I've read!"

"And they say that terrible book has made her a fortune, my dear!"

It was quite natural that some of the remarks should reach the girl on the steps, but she betrayed no embarrassment. Black eyes beneath unbelievable long, dusky lashes swept the ballroom with a glance of contemptuous mockery, with an odd, disdainful aloofness with which some long-gone princess might have looked on at her slaves.

Her painted smile never wavered. She turned and whispered to the man at her side something which her audience took to be one of the sarcastic criticisms of the variety with which her book was spiced:

"What Starr Ellison actually said was:

"Michael-Hassan, I'm scared! My legs feel wobbly. I don't think I can walk a step farther!"

Warm gray eyes reassured her. Michael patted her hand. Scared little alien with the heart of a child. He hadn't thought of it in that light before. . . . Didn't know the thought had been coming to him by degrees during their intimacy of the preparation days—He had been preferring to remember where he had found her—Rot, all of it! She had been a La Laine habitue. . . . Nough said.

He whispered tensely:

"Keep your courage, kid. You're doing great. Cleopatra herself couldn't have knocked them any dearer!" Then his eyes narrowed as he shot her quick glance. "And for the love of mud, don't call me Hassan! . . . Some of them might not understand that—"

Starr's long eyes passed over him slowly.

"I understand. Has—Michael. Don't let it worry you. Everybody will understand that your interest in 'Play-Girl' is because you're so loyal to the interests of your firm."

Michael snubbed at the unexpected rebuff, but said nothing. Perhaps he had made a mistake in assuming with the girl an air of camaraderie. After all, theirs was a most meticulous business arrangement.

In short order Starr was introduced into little individual murmur-

ed to more people than she could ever hope to remember. It was bewildering. She was conscious all the time, too, of an undercurrent of antagonism, disapproval in too many cases. She knew she was being measured by her reputation. The kiss-and-tell girl.

Men ogled her, drinking in her fragile loveliness. Some of them managed to inject an undertone of suggestiveness beneath their most casual remarks.

Starr understood. They were wondering how far they could go; they were trying her out. They were fancying themselves in the role of this famous beauty's newest play-partner. She, who had never had a love affair in her life, could have taken her pick of twenty lovers that night had she chosen to offer the slightest encouragement.

The women were on their guard; conversation stilled, eyes on their men, as though mortally afraid that their own husbands or sweethearts would be "Play-Girl's" next game.

It was strange, this being the centre of attraction. It was a strange undertaking upon which she had embarked. Starr was most uncertain in her own mind whether this kind of "play" was a game worth the candle of crowded living. For six months: But she had to go on. Must!

Starr felt a hand draw her from out a circle of curious admirers and turned to face Michael and a girl. In the girl's eyes was that touch of interest that is usually in the eyes of a juvenile scientist with a butterfly on a pin. The girl smiled oddly and slowly.

"So you are 'Play-Girl'?" she drawled. "Well, I am certainly interested to meet you!"

Starr heard Michael murmuring the name of Stephanie Dale. In the moment she noticed that Stephanie substituted "interested" for the conventional "pleased." There was an unpleasant infection in the imperious voice; further unpleasantness in her haughty mien.

She made her remark much in the manner she might have said, "How interesting!" viewing the freaks in a sidelong through a jeweled long-nette.

The girl Michael wanted to marry was a slim, pink and white blond. Her eyes were as brilliantly blue as sapphires, and as cold. She wore all white, and looked like a pale hot-house flower against Starr's vivid coloring.

Starr felt a vague quickening of her pulses. Of all the people she had met this night, Stephanie Dale was the first to register indelibly in her consciousness.

Duplicates Of Crown Jewels

London Firm Busy Filling Orders For Coronation Display

The crown jewels of England are coming to America—in cargo lots.

In fact, if the United States should decide to enshrine a king any time within the next few months there will be enough glittering crowns on hand to outfit a whole royal family.

With King Edward VIII's coronation set for next May, a London firm is busily turning out duplicates of the famous British crown jewels.

Scores of orders have come from American cities for display in connection with next year's coronation ceremonies, while dozens of others have come from Australia, New Zealand, Canada and South Africa.

Except that the "gem" are glass and the "gold" is imitation, the crowns are identical with the historical jewels which are kept under heavy guard in the Tower of London.

Each set contains five crowns, five swords, six scepters, two orbs, the spurs and bracelets of St. George, and other regal paraphernalia including the famed Order of the Garter.

Fuel Tanks In Wings

New Soviet Plane Makes Maiden Non-Stop Flight

An aeroplane which may revolutionize aircraft design has made a successful 5,838-mile non-stop maiden flight in Soviet Russia. The machine is known as the ANT-25. It has been perfected by Professor A. N. Tupolev.

The machine is a monoplane with fuel tanks in the wings. Special balloons of light rubberized fabric take the place of floats to enable the machine to land on water.

These balloons are connected by a common feed so that the pilot can, by pressing with his foot, inflate the balloons and fill all of them.

In the event of a forced landing on water, this balloon system, it is claimed, would enable the aeroplane to stay afloat for a considerable period. The machine is also the first Soviet aeroplane to be equipped with an electrically operated retractable undercarriage fitted with an oil shock absorber.

Big Fish Catch

Wallace H. McMillan, of Winnipeg, holds the distinction of winning five type buttons in one fishing expedition at Courtenay, B.C. He qualified for the gold, silver and bronze awards at both Campbell river and Comox bay. The gold button calls for a fish from 50 to 60 pounds, the silver from 40 to 50 and the bronze from 30 to 40.

Income from egg production in Saskatchewan rose from $5,500,000 in 1934 to $7,200,000 in 1935.

Find Precious Stones

Claim Made That Diamonds And Rubies Can Be Mined In Edmonton Area

Diamonds and rubies can be mined within Edmonton's city limits. This is the belief of Ferdinand Pomahac, a contractor who claims to have found rough crystals he believes stones.

Mr. Pomahac, who has visited diamond fields in South Africa, said the crystals would cut glass in the same manner as a diamond. He displayed a stone which he contends is a genuine ruby and so appraised by an Edmonton jeweler.

Location of the find is withheld by the "city prospector" who declares he has a valuable find. He intends to acquire rights to the property and develop the find.

Pomahac made a study of geology in Germany and is convinced he will produce diamonds and rubies in commercial quantity. Part of any financial benefits accruing from the venture will be used to care for sick children in Edmonton hospitals, he says.

Taking No Chances

Bookings Being Made On Sister Ship

"No. 532," sister-ship to the Queen Mary, may be full up for the maiden voyage before her keel is laid in December.

Scores of her blue-print bedrooms and bathrooms are already booked.

Plans in the Cunard-White Star offices show reservations on the non-existent liner, which will not sail until 1940.

Most of the bookings are from people who made frantic last-minute efforts to secure accommodation, at any price, aboard the Queen Mary.

A Cunard-White Star official said to the London Star: "About 50 reservations have already been made, and we are constantly getting inquiries."

"Some people want to know if they can safely wait a year or two before they book."

"The first bookings were made immediately it was announced that the government had sanctioned the proposal to lay the keel, and they were all by people who had missed the Queen Mary's sailing."

Has Had Excellent Care

Every Sunday morning for 27 years—except three days when he was sick—Fred W. Langbein, Memphis, Tenn., has spent three hours polishing his first, and only, car. Langbein, who is a tailor, bought the car in 1909 and paid $885 for it. He has put nearly 600,000 miles on four speedometers.

Guide: "This is exactly as it was when Wolsley lived here."

Little Helps For This Week

The eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms. Deut. 33:27.

Within Thy encircling arms we O God, in Thy infinity: Our souls in quiet shall abide, Beset with love on every side.

"The Everlasting Arms." We think of that whenever rest is sweet. How the whole earth and the strength of it is beneath every tired creature to give it rest, holding us always. No thought of God is closer than that. No human tenderness or patience is greater than that which gathers in its arms a little child and holds it, hugging it, everlastingly. And He fills the great earth, and all upon it, with this unseen force of His love that never forgets or exhausts itself, so that everywhere we may lie in His bosom and be comforted.

Made In Canada

Dominion Manufactures Some Of World's Finest Inks

Canada is more responsible than any other country in the Empire for the world's split ink. She is the chief producer of carbon black, one of the principal ingredients of printer's ink. The Chinese ascribe the invention of ink to Tien Tcheu, who lived between 2687 B.C. and 2597 B.C., and it is known that the ancient Egyptians prepared and used ink at a very early date. An Egyptian document—a papyrus—with written characters of the date 2500 B.C. is still in existence. Two thousand years later the emperors of Greece and of Rome were wont to sign their decrees with a flourish in purple ink. Since these days the numbers and kinds of ink have been many, and today some of the finest inks in the world are manufactured in Canada.

Strange Civic Custom

The strangest civic custom of modern times is still practiced in Lhasa, Tibet. The privilege of being mayor of the city for the first 23 days of the year is sold by auction. The highest bidder assumes his mayoral duties, rules the city as he thinks fit, and keeps all the money he can raise through additional taxation and fancy fines.

Luxury For Pigs

Cold shower baths have been installed in what are believed to be the most luxurious pig sties in the world, at Ennu Plains, New South Wales. If the animals are kept cool in hot weather, it has been found that they fatten better.

WHAT I OWE MY TOWN

The following is copied from an exchange:

"If all my citizenship accounts were balanced at this date, I would be the debtor. Haven't I, all these years, lived within the limits of the town and shared all its benefits? Haven't I had the benefit of its schools and churches? Haven't I had the use of its parks and public places? Haven't I had the protection of its fire, police and health department? Haven't its people, during all this time, been gathering for me, from the four corners of the earth, food for my table, clothing for my body, and material for my home?"

Haven't my town furnished the patronage by which I have succeeded in my business? Haven't it furnished the best friends of my life, whose ideals have been my inspiration, whose kind words have been my cheer, and whose helpfulness has carried me over the greatest difficulties?"

This is a viewpoint which is not too common, but which has no little substance. The privileges of citizenship in a pleasant town are met in a measure, but not altogether, by taxes. There is a tonic which we cannot measure in money, in our neighbor's flower gardens, in tree shaded walks, in well kept homes and in all the graces of nature and man's industry, which flourish round us. There is a satisfaction in kindly companionship and in neighborliness on which no taxes are paid. Such by-products of town life are not taxable, yet they make up the values and happiness of life.

A Calgary man, broadcasting: "My idea of an understanding wife is one who has pork chops ready when you come home from fishing."

Frank Fillingham, former assistant accountant in the department of public works at Edmonton, was arrested at Winnipeg Monday to answer charges of discrepancy in that department, involving some thousands of dollars. He had been in the civil service for seven years.

A Saskatchewan woman, visiting Alberta, was assessed a fine of $25 for apparent innocence. She visited friends and was charged that within twenty-four hours after her arrival in Alberta she operated a motor vehicle registered in Saskatchewan, contrary to the provisions of a certain traffic act. Of course, she admitted a breach of the act, though at the same time being an innocent offender.

Claiming that cases of Social Credit supporters might be prejudiced when such supporters appeared before him, W. P. Roberts, police magistrate at H. A. Roberts, was officially notified that his services were no longer required, and requested to return his commission. Now, what can one expect from a Social Credit magistrate if he is not a social creditor? Can you beat it for small fry?

An Alberta barber was heard remark that the scale of fees contained in the new barbers' code should or would not apply to barbers operating outside the big centres. Well, we find that hair can be grown just as cheaply in Blairmore as in Calgary or Edmonton. The code provides a minimum charge of 35 cents for a haircut. Going upwards, like everything else, the sky is permitted to be the limit.

EDSON-JASPER SIGNALS

POINT OF VIEW

The shadow of the dictator falls on Alberta. Will it materialize?

That depends on whether or not Premier Aberhart has the audacity to carry out the threat he made at Prophetic Bible Institute last Sunday afternoon.

Premier Aberhart, who claims the right to criticize, condemn, bully and ridicule those who oppose him as he entertains the congregation gathered at his Bible Institute from time to time, declares that the press of Alberta shall print only the kind of material as suits his purpose or pleases his vanity.

He does not put it in so many words, of course. Dictators never do. They always claim that they are censoring the press for the good of the state. Some dictators give (astor to the citizens for the same reason.

He claims that the press of Alberta do not know the difference between liberty and license; and he proposes to teach them without giving any evidence that he has the ability or the vision to do so.

The declaration got him a big hand from the congregation of the Bible Institute last Sunday as he made the announcement, but surely the people of Alberta will not allow the congregation of one church—any church—to say what everyone else must do.

People have short memories, and it is as well to remind them of facts from time to time.

Mr. Aberhart had many uncomplicated things to say about the press before the election. They were tools of the money barons and they were trying to keep him from bringing in a new era in the Province of Alberta. He was always being misquoted. Finally the Calgary Herald offered him a full page advertisement absolutely free to state his views in his own way. He refused it because, so he said, it would boost his circulation. And he went right on complaining that he was being misquoted.

In spite of all the opposition of this press, Mr. Aberhart was given the authority he sought. The authority to deliver the people of Alberta from economic bondage. He has been in power now over a year and has done exactly nothing toward the end for which he was elected. The newspapers of Alberta, on behalf of the people want to know why, and in doing so, according to Mr. Aberhart, the newspapers are abusing their liberties.

After the election, in order to get the "truth" to the people the Calgary Alberta was purchased (by someone or other) and there was commenced from the pulpit a campaign for circulation and advertising patronage. 50,000 daily circulation for the Alberta was aimed at. This campaign failed. So the press of Alberta must be silenced.

Of course Mr. Aberhart did not care for himself. He said so from the pulpit. It was the poor suffering people he was worried about. He couldn't do anything about it at present as he was just going to the Pacific coast for his fourth (or is it the fifth) holiday in a year. So the people will have to suffer the press until he gets back.

In the meantime the newspapers of Alberta are not worrying one iota. They have faith in the common sense of the average citizen of Alberta. They have faith to believe that even among his supporters no such dictatorial attitude will be allowed.

These are the people who believe Mr. Aberhart when he said he could introduce the New Economics into Alberta: They elected him to power in spite of the opposition press, and they expect him to deliver the goods in spite of the opposition press. It will not help Mr. Aberhart's prestige to keep fooling around with Debt Adjustment Acts; Balanced Budgets that won't balance; School Acts that no one understands; interest reduction; press censorship. What they want from Mr. Aberhart is the dividend he promised, and if he fails in that, a silenced press cannot save him from those dear fellows, Holmes and Watson.

And a swashbuckling language it is, too. When printers turn to discussing their craft, writers of detective thrillers might well eavesdrop to their great edification while, overhearing those dear fellows, Holmes and Watson.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

SHOOTING WITH THE SUN
IN FRONT

"Yes," says Towser humbly, "my master is a great fisherman." Outdoor silhouettes like this are made with sun in front; lens shaded, fast shutter speed (at least 1/100 second) and small stop (at least f.16.)

TIME and again novices forget the old rule that says that you should have the sun over your shoulder when you take pictures, and suffer the penalty of a sun-struck negative. They see something "pretty" and excitedly shoot at it regardless of the fact that Old Sol may be glaring directly into the eye of the camera.

It's a good rule not to forget, but it does not mean that pictures can never be taken with the sun in front of the lens. Indeed, considering the number of sun-in-front pictures that are being hung in salons these days as examples of artistic achievement in photography, it would seem as if the rule is being broken often than it is observed.

But, before you try such pictures deliberately, be sure you have acquired good judgment in the use of stop openings and shutter speeds, because light and shadow conditions with the sun in front are decidedly different from those when the sun is behind you.

In all such pictures it is absolutely essential that the camera lens be shielded from the direct rays of the sun, else "lens flare" on the negative is sure to result. This can be done with a hat or other object or by jockeying around for a position in which a tree or other lofty screen places the sun in eclipse. Or you may take a lens hood to your camera accessories.

Some of the most artistic sun-in-front pictures are made with the sun's rays striking the subject the storm to come.

No one has more sympathy for Mr. Aberhart than we have. We know just how tough an assignment he has. We knew it long before he did—presuming that he knows now. We have been critical of Mr. Aberhart ever since the election. We intend to continue to be critical until he gets down to the real business of fulfilling his election promises. When that time comes, if it ever does, we shall be the first to praise him.

If Mr. Aberhart tries to silence the press of Alberta it will prove to be just one more thing he has attempted and failed in. We hope, for his own sake, that he will not try—Edson-Jasper Signal.

PRINTER'S PARLANCE

"Slug," "Kill," "Devil," "Hell-box," and so on. If you hear a collection of chaps talking dispassionately and using these and kindred terms, do not be alarmed. They are probably printers and are using the jargon of the trade.

A "Stick" is not a club, nor is a "Galley" a boar or cooking place. None but those used to composing room conversation can make sense of Swashbuckling Language.

Type is the voice of the Fourth Estate.

Journalists may discover the facts, draw conclusions, write upon the doings of the day, but—rattle the typewriters how they may, says Henry Edison Williams in The Christian Science Monitor, their message is muted until type comes to the rescue.

And a swashbuckling language it is, too. When printers turn to discussing their craft, writers of detective thrillers might well eavesdrop to their great edification while, overhearing those dear fellows, Holmes and Watson.

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS

420 15th Ave. E., Calgary, September 17, 1936.

To the Editor:

Dear Sir:—The word of warning in your splendid editorial of the freedom of the press in last week's issue of The Advocate should point out to all readers, irrespective of political color, the dangerous position we people of Alberta are approaching when the leader of a government threatens to license newspapers. The importance of your warning cannot be over-emphasized. Not one Albertan who values liberty of speech can afford to scoff or say you are crying "Wolf, wolf" where there is no wolf. While many supporters of the present government will stoutly defend the premier's attitude towards the critical press, we of the Communist Party would call their attention to the undeniable fact that no political group in the world has been so stigmatized, vilified, criticized and condemned by the press as much as we have. No group has as much cause to resent misrepresentation of our political aims and aspirations. For many years we have burned and written under scorching attacks from practically one hundred per cent of the world's press. Yet we survive and grow, and not once in the whole history of our party have we called for a suppression of criticism. We built a press to answer our critics. If the present provincial government cannot answer its critics with all the means at its disposal, there is proof positive that it is resting upon a very shaky foundation. The government possesses a daily paper; has full access to the air over its own station; has an overwhelming majority in parliament every member a propagandist with the added prestige of M.L.A. behind his name; has no opposition to speak of; possesses the greatest weapon of all in appealing to the people—the Bible. With such an arsenal of weapons to defend itself with, not even the devil himself should be able to prevail against it, so what are they afraid of? If truth and justice are on the side of the government, should the premier fear printed words in a newspaper article or the critical comment of an editorial?

Let the premier be big enough to ignore criticism and get on with the work of fulfilling pre-election promises. The only way to be behind him on that. Let him compare what he gets in the way of criticism with what he would get if he stood for Communism. Knowing that he has a sense of humor, he should be able to laugh himself sick over such a comparison and consider himself mighty lucky. How would he like to be in Premier Blom's shoes with a million and a half of Fascists getting ready to tear into him with the criticism of weapons—not the weapon of criticism. A licensed press is Fascism's first big move towards smothering all criticism. An aroused public opinion is the first step in Alberta to offset Fascism; something which now seeks to raise its ugly head here, with its talk of licensing the free press. "We never miss the water till the well runs dry," and we do not appreciate our liberties or health until both are taken from us. Let us arouse ourselves and carry forward the slogan to Edmonton: "Hands off the Alberta press."

Yours truly,

GEO. PALMER.

(From Red Deer Advocate)

Just that. But this sort of thing might go on ad infinitum. The moral from it all may be: Never judge a printer by the language he uses. He may be talking most innocent trade twaddle. In fact, he usually is.

The above does not in any way apply to a ten-cent imitation plant, such as multigraphs.

A smile costs nothing, but gives much. It enriches those who receive, without making poorer those who give. It takes but a moment, but the memory lasts forever.

The Wainwright Star remarks: If the matter appearing in our newspapers is to be subject to the discretion of a government department, Alberta will then take its place in the same class as Italy and Germany, where the press is wholly controlled by the government.

Great news of insurance... The accumulated assets of the life insurance policy-holders of Canada are the largest—by far the largest—single class of investment holdings in the country. They include every type of non-speculative investment, but owing to the nature of the insurance contract the greater part of them consists of credit claims against property, with principal and interest payable in fixed dollar amounts, rather than ownership equities whose value and income depend upon earnings. The insurance companies themselves, some of which are wholly mutualized, and all of which administer total funds in which the shareholders' proportion is an infinitesimal part; the real owners are the policy-holders themselves. And in spite of the existence of a fair number of very large policies which may be regarded as a class of rich men's investments, the typical policy holding is a matter of a few hundreds or thousands of dollars, the chief asset and the metaphorical anchor to windward of some industrial, commercial or professional worker who has not accumulated and never will accumulate any other important asset.

No act of destruction or partial destruction of the value of any such credit claim, be it a government bond, a municipal bond, a public utility bond, a railway bond, an industrial bond, or an ordinary property mortgage, can ever fail to impair the assets of the life insurance policy-holders of the country. Any widespread destruction of such values must necessarily render the function for which those policy-holders rely upon them. The same is true of inadequate to perform the function for which those policy-holders rely upon them. The same is true of any tampering with the value of the unit of currency in which these credit claims are expressed. Policy-holders who have any real regard for the interests of their beneficiaries—the women and children for whose benefit the vast majority of life insurance policies are taken out—should set their faces immutably against all government tendencies leading to partial or complete repudiation of debt contracts, for such tendencies are destructive to the whole system of insurance.

The object of insurance is to make something sure. The effect of repudiation is to make everything unsure.

Quick Relief for Stuffy Head

Assistance Needed

While it is a matter for congratulation that Churchill, the Hudson's Bay port, is enjoying a record shipping season this year, it is pausing strange that active steps to promote increased traffic for the route, for the establishment of which the west fought for over 50 years, should be left to "outsiders."

For better than half a century, farmers and business men of the prairie provinces fought against great odds to establish the Hudson Bay route by the construction of a railway line, and terminal facilities on the Bay to handle traffic which they hoped would eventually result in better returns for agricultural products shipped out and reduced prices for merchandise shipped in.

The first objective was achieved in 1932 when the S.S. Pennyworth steamed into Churchill Harbor with a cargo of commodities from overseas for Western Canadian consumption and left again with a full cargo of Western Canadian grain for European markets. Since that time there has been an annual increase in the number of inward and outward bound vessels making use of the route until this year, 14 boats have entered the harbor with a possibility that the number would be increased to 16 before the close of navigation.

While, however, these results indicate some progress in the development of traffic by the short and direct route between Western Canada and Europe, the development is not rapid enough to ensure the full benefits which prairie producers and consumers should be reaping from the operation of this great project. If the route is to be of maximum service and benefit to the west, the people of the west, for whose advantage these facilities were devised, must take active steps to promote the use of the service to its greatest possible extent and as speedily as conditions permit.

Recently two notable and interested authorities testified, almost on the same day, that it is not being done that the people of the prairie are not taking as much interest as they should in speeding up traffic and that, in effect, they are apathetic.

Said R. S. Dalgleish of Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, chairman of the Board of the Dalgleish Shipping Line, which company has operated more boats in and out of Churchill since the inception of the route than any other organization, in an interview: "I do not think that Canada has done enough to develop Churchill and the Hudson Bay route," and added that instead of 14 ships entering Churchill Harbor this season there should have been sixty.

The other authority who expressed similar views was A. L. Lawes, vice-president of the Montreal Shipping Company, who, in an interview after a visit to Churchill, was critical of the apathy "in many places" concerning the development of the northern seaport.

Coming from the sources they do, these comments indicate that these facilities are capable of providing much greater service to the people of the prairie provinces than they are now doing, provided the people most vitally interested in the development of the route take the necessary steps to ensure the maximum use of them.

As is intimated by another authority, the greatest possible benefits in the way of reduced costs can only be secured by a big volume of business. This is axiomatic in practically all commercial undertakings.

Mr. Lawes told the press that the French Louis Dreyfus and Co. line was shipping out five million bushels of wheat this season through the Bay channel and said that ten million bushels was a reasonable objective for 1937, but he gave a specific instance of loss of traffic as a result of failure to furnish commodities which could have been handled had they been available.

He reported that the Montreal Shipping Company has ordered the steamship "Brandon" fitted out to handle livestock. "However," he added, "arrangements were not begun in time and no cattle were available for the dates on which the ship could come to the port."

It is true that the On-to-the-Bay Association has done much to promote the development of trade via the Hudson Bay route since the railway line and terminal facilities were completed by aiding successful efforts to secure reduced carrying charges and insurance rates as well as extension of the navigation season, but these efforts must be aided and abetted to the greatest possible extent by government, agencies, business concerns, farmer organizations and individuals. If the most is to be made of the new route, the Hudson Bay route, like Topsy, must not be allowed to just grow haphazardly, but its development must be accelerated by vigorous effort and alert salesmanship on the part of all citizens of the prairie provinces.

Nice Clean Coal

Can Be Handled Without Smudging Hands Or Clothes

Coal cubes—"You can feed the furnace with them in your dinner clothes"—were put on the fuel market in Chicago.

The cubes were so clean, salesmen boasted at the American coal week exposition, that:

Snow white trucks delivered them. White liveries carried them into the house.

Husbands tossed them into the furnace without smudging their clothes, or even their hands.

They were piled up beside the fireplace in the living room, and used instead of logs.

The secret of it all was that the cubes were wrapped in heavy paper. Made of fine coal—known to coalmen as "screened"—Canadian, mixed with water and glucose binder, the cubes were pressed into shape just as sugar cubes are.

Each package held six 3 1/2-inch cubes and weighed 10 pounds. By the ton, the cubes cost slightly less than coke or anthracite, slightly more than other kinds of bituminous coal.

More Demand For Hay

We have noticed several references to the poor hay crop in many rural areas of Great Britain due to an excess of rainfall. Canadian exports of hay to the United Kingdom last year totalled 20,221 tons, being the largest quantity sent during the past six years. Indications are that these figures will be surpassed in the current year at more attractive prices to the farmer.

Raw Asbestos Found

Deposits Discovered Near New Gold Fields in Ontario

Deposits of raw asbestos have been found north and south of the gold fields recently discovered 11 miles north of Arden, Ont., it was learned.

This tiny village of 350 population, continued to attract mining men and prospectors from widely separated sections of Canada and the United States as all reports tended to confirm the optimistic expressions of local residents as to the richness of the new gold fields. The gold vein runs ten miles east and west straight through the bush country, and extends about three and one-half miles in width, according to experts.

Staking of claims continued over a wide area adjoining the actual vein, first discovered last June by T. J. Alexander and Mervin Newton, local men. They have sold their claims to Hollinger mines. They reportedly received $75,000. Hollinger engineers also have secured much additional property in the district. Representatives of all other leading Canadian mining companies are on the ground taking up options and buying-out right from prospectors willing to sell.

Canada's New Coinage

Reported That New Designs Will Appear On Different Denominations

When Canada's new coinage is issued, one of the coins may gladden the eyes of western Canadians. It may bear on the reverse side a grain elevator or a similar prairie scene. Big changes are being planned in the new coins, which will bear the head of King Edward and which are expected to be issued in 1937.

The head of the king, of course, will be upon one side of the coin and will face to the left. But designs for the reverse side are still under consideration and suggestions are being narrowed down.

The idea is to abandon the traditional wreath of maple leaves and provide a new and different design for each one of the 1, 5, 10- and 25-cent coins.

As a concession to sectional claims and to emphasize the resources and interests in Canada, the designs under consideration are of a wide variety.

One coin will likely show a fishing schooner—the famous Bluenose—another a peak in the Rockies, a third a fish or game subject, and a fourth a grain elevator or some prairie topic.

There is some talk that the 50-cent coin—always an unpopular one—may be discontinued.

The suggested designs will follow that seen upon the recent $1 silver coin, which bears a canoe paddled by an Indian and a voyageur.

Canadian topics have been pictured on Canadian stamps—such as the Bluenose, the peak of the Rockies, a prairie scene of harvesting and others.

Latest Surgical Discovery

Tests Will Show Susceptibility To Shock In Operations

A corner at least of the always dangerous curtain of unconsciousness that hides surgical and post-operative shock was lifted by a physician at the American Congress on Physical Therapy. He revealed for the first time that tests could be conducted which would prevent prospective death in cases other than emergencies.

Dr. C. Ward Crampton, chairman of the committee of preventive medicine of the New York County Medical Society, discovered that persons whose vasomotor efficiency (condition of the blood vessels) was dangerously low nearly always experienced marked decrease in blood pressure when made to stand, and a simultaneous and extreme quickening of the pulse.

Dr. Crampton told the medical men with charts he had worked out over a long period of years surgeons could tell with the simple tests whether a patient about to be operated upon would develop shock.

"When the readings are low, but immediate surgery is imperative, the surgeon must expect trouble, employ speed, spare trauma and select less severe operative procedure."

Solves Problem Of Growers

X-Ray Used To Determine Quality Of Vegetables

One of Minnesota's vegetable growers' greatest problems—that of ascertaining the quality of their products—has been solved by a University of Minnesota plant physiologist.

R. B. Harvey, of the university farm, has perfected a method by which he can peer into the heart of potatoes and other agricultural products.

Employing the use of an X-ray and a physician's fluoroscope, Harvey can detect those vegetables with hollow hearts and thus rate accurately products by testing samples in large quantities.

Oil Made Good Light

Natives Of Hawaii Used Nuts From Kulu Tree

Lumbang or kulu oil, obtained from the nuts of the kulu, or candlenut tree, are occasionally used in the manufacture of some kinds of paint. The candlenut tree is native to Polynesia and is widely cultivated in Asia, Hawaii and the Philippines. Formerly the Hawaiians stored the nuts together on sticks and used them for lighting their houses. Hence the name "candlenut."

For The Chickens

A sudden demand for lipstick by prim elderly ladies and grim-visaged sons of toil at Ancaster, Ontario, puzzled a merchant so much that he finally inquired of an elderly farmer why he wanted the cosmetic. "To color the combs and wattles of chickens I am showing at county fairs," was the answer.

Manager Was Nervous

When Miniature Oil Derrick Started Working In Hotel

The U.S. Federal Government set up a derrick and started digging for oil in the lobby of the Mayflower hotel in Washington.

The drill bit went down toward pay dirt. All the experts of the Bureau of Mines stood around admiring, while a miniature model of a Texas oil well drilled a neat round hole in the middle of an imitation prairie.

Beneath the prairie was some mud and dirt—Beneath the mud and dirt was a can of oil. Beneath the can was an Oriental rug and beneath the rug was a white marble floor. That explains why the manager was a little apprehensive.

The Bureau of Mines said it was figuring, sort of, on a gusher for the benefit of foreign scientists attending the third world power conference, especially for those in whose native lands gasoline is found only in five-gallon cans. The hotel's man asked if the bureau didn't think a gusher might be a little hard on the ceiling?

The bureau's man said how about a steam-heated, little gusher, then? And furthermore, the opposition said, what if that drill slipped down to the bottom of the can, chewed the rug; bored into the floor and went to work on the machinery in the cellar? The bureau said not to worry, it would turn off the juice in plenty of time.

Also, for the edification of visiting engineers, the bureau installed an ultra-modern model of a refinery, in-to one end of which you drop a lump of coal and turn on the electricity. From the other end there comes moth balls, oil of jasmine, headache tablets, maccharin, nitric acid, dye and a couple of hundred other products, including steering wheels for automobiles.

The model is over-simplified, the bureau explained, and it doesn't really work, but it does show the amazing things which brains and a lot of electricity can extract from a lump of coal.

Exhibits concerning science over-towered the hotel and spread all over town. Dr. C. G. Abbott's sun engine, deriving its power from solar rays and mirrors, was at the Smithsonian Institution.

The government's elevator for salmon, being built into the Bonneville dam in the Pacific Northwest, was modeled at the National Museum. The government's silk stocking tester, which walks and bends its knees.

War Not Glorified

Is A Cruel And Wasteful Thing, Says Lord Tweedsmuir

Disabled returned soldiers know that war is "a cruel and wasteful thing," Baron Tweedsmuir, Canada's governor-general, told the Amputations Association of the Great War, in annual convention at Winnipeg.

In a brief address, His Excellency said men who had lost a limb or an eye "may be perfectly happy and comfortable physically, yet this reminder of the war they must always have with them."

"Such men know," he continued, "that war is not essentially a noble, or heroic, or beautiful thing, but that it is a cruel and wasteful thing. So it is they who say to themselves, 'Please God, it shall not come again.' Thus, the amputations men are in a position to inspire real public feeling about the war."

The governor-general was made a member of the association. In pinning his identification badge upon him, Rev. Captain S. E. Lambert, association president, addressed the governor-general as "Comrade Lord Tweedsmuir."

After Ten-Year Blindness

Young Man Gets Real Thrill When Sight Comes Back

After ten years of total blindness, Roy K. Kendrick of Bondi, Australia, suddenly recovered his sight, Australia, suddenly recovered his sight, Australia, suddenly recovered his sight.

Kendrick was blinded in a soccer match in 1926 when he was 22 years old and had reconciled himself to the doctors' verdict that he would never see again.

"When I was shaving," he said, "I felt a strange sensation in my eyes. I thought I could see my face in the mirror, but imagination has played some strange tricks on me in the last few years. I rushed out of my room and saw the sky—blue, with white clouds."

"Then I went back to finish my shaving. I dressed by touch in the way I have learned, and then went out into the street. It was all vague, but what I felt could not be described. Buildings I remember having passed scores of times. I could see them—and women dressed very differently from ten years ago. I kept noticing things and reading advertisements—anything. Then I ran back to the hotel, overjoyed, laughing, crying and kissing everyone. I couldn't help it. It was difficult to focus at first, but I am getting used to my eyes again. When I want anything, my first impulse is to reach out to touch it rather than look."

If Motor License Exchange In Empire Was Established

A resolution seeking the co-operation of the Automobile Association and the Royal Automobile Club of Great Britain and the allied automobile clubs of the sister Dominions, in a concerted campaign for the establishment of motor license exchange throughout the British Empire, was unanimously passed at the 23rd annual general meeting of the Canadian Automobile Association at the National Club in Toronto.

It was asserted that the governmental red tape and customs barriers to intra-empire motor touring greatly exceed those relating to travel between Canada and the United States.

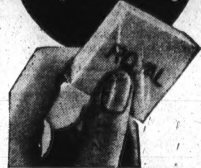

Have More Patience

Really Artistic Pictures Are Usually Taken By Amateurs

Amateur photographers produce more artistic photographs than the professionals, says Alex J. Krupp, who was chairman of the committee in charge of the seventh international salon of photography held in Chicago.

"The reason," Krupp said, "is that after spending hours daily on commercial work, the professional has not the patience of an amateur and cannot prevent a certain amount of commercialism entering the picture."

TO AVOID ANY FRICTION IS AIM OF THE LEAGUE

Geneva.—France presented a plan for a League of Nations disarmament conference while the league moved to prevent inflammatory speeches from the nostrum.

France officially notified the league assembly steering committee it would propose convocation of the general committee as a disarmament conference.

The committee, meanwhile, authorized President Savera Lamas to halt any speaker he thinks guilty of utterances liable to affect adversely international relations.

The first scheduled speakers include Julio Alvarez del Vayo, delegate of the Spanish government; Yvon Delboe, French delegate; and Foreign Secretary Eden of Great Britain.

Del Vayo, it was understood, will address the league on the Spanish civil war.

Premier Mussolini of Italy, it was reported, has been advised to hurry the complete conquest of Ethiopia to fortify his demands that Emperor Haile Selassie's delegation be excluded from the league.

Counselors have urged him, reliable informants said, to subjugate Ethiopia so thoroughly the negro would have no further claim to a capital, such as Gore, or to any jurisdiction, on which to demand rights to Geneva representation.

The negro was said to recognize the danger and to be preparing a last-ditch stand to maintain a realm, however tiny, in Ethiopia. Haile Selassie left for Ethiopia.

Mussolini was told, informed sources said, the league vote to recognize the Ethiopian empire and to reject the credentials committee's proposal that the world court be asked to rule on Ethiopia's membership, was actually an Italian victory.

Some leaders were convinced, it was reported authoritatively, the world court would have ruled against Italy. The court, it was said, would have held Italy's acquisitions in Ethiopia violated the covenant of the league and, therefore, could not affect Ethiopia's claim to membership.

Mussolini was apprised of this explanation, urged to remain in the league and let time solve the question.

Opposes Immigration Plan

More British Deported Than Enter Canada Convention Is Told

Saskatoon.—In 1933 and 1934 Canada sent more people back than received from the Old Country and in 1933 alone 4,000 Britishers were deported, M. J. Coldwell, M.P., reminded the 200 delegates to the Saskatchewan immigration and settlement convention, when the pros and cons of renewing immigration were discussed by a number of speakers.

"The present is not the time for immigration in Canada," Mr. Coldwell stated. He was interested in the human, as well as the financial side of the question.

In 1933 and 1934, the member stated, Canada had sent many more Britishers back to the United Kingdom than she had accepted from the Old Country. In 1933 alone, more than 4,000 Britishers had been deported, he said.

Men in public affairs were familiar with the requests from Britishers asking to be deported to the Old Country, Mr. Coldwell asserted.

"I am opposed to any plan of immigration until such time as our Canadian farmers have raised their standard of living, and our youth is given the opportunity which is rightfully theirs," the federal member stated.

Potatoes From Alberta

Northern Part Of Province Has Surplus For Export

Edmonton.—Export of 500 carloads of potatoes from northern Alberta to Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, will result this fall because Dominion government reports indicate that area was the only part of western Canada with a surplus available for export. It was anticipated the export, first major shipping out of the province in 10 years, will bring district farmers an unexpected revenue of about $250,000.

Judicial Vacancies Filled

Hon. N. W. Rowell Appointed Chief Justice For Ontario

Ottawa.—Making a clean sweep of the judicial vacancies in Ontario the government appointed a chief justice, two judges to the supreme court and six to the county courts. Hon. Newton Wesley Rowell, K.C., a veteran Ontario jurist, member of the war-time Unionist government, was selected for the vacancy created by the resignation early this summer of Sir William Mulock.

Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of justice and acting prime minister, also announced the appointment of W. E. Gladstone Murray, Canadian-born executive of the British Broadcasting Company, and Augustin R. J. G. Gauthier, minister of agriculture, to fill the vacancies created in the House of Commons by Mr. Chevrier's appointment, writes have been issued for a bye-election to be held Oct. 28.

A judicial vacancy in Quebec will be filled at the next cabinet session, but the vacancy in Alberta will not be filled until the return to the capital of Hon. T. A. Crerar, minister of mines and resources, and Hon. J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture, both of whom are in western Canada.

Existing civil service vacancies will be left until the return of Prime Minister Mackenzie King from Geneva.

The radio executives, who take office Nov. 2, will receive salaries of $13,000 for the general manager and $12,000 for the assistant. Chief justice of Ontario receives $10,000, the two supreme court judges $9,000, and the county court judges $5,000.

Planes For Northern Work

Specially Built For High Speed Photographic Work

Montreal.—The second of three aircraft being built here for the department of northern defence for service in the Northwest Territories was put through tests here. The planes are especially built for high speed photographic and transport work and carry sufficient fuel and oil for five and a half hours' work at high altitude.

At the rear of the cabins are mountings for three oblique cameras which photograph automatically through small apertures in the metal landing gear, and the normal wheel undercarriages can also be fitted as well as a special ski undercarriage for winter flying.

Urges Fund For League

Montreal.—A suggestion, a large fund contributed to by all members of the League of Nations, should be placed at the disposal of any league member whose territory is invaded, was advanced by Dr. Hans Simons, of Germany, in a discussion on the European situation and league affairs at a meeting of the Montreal branch of the League of Nations Society.

Settled By Draw

Copenhagen, Denmark.—Government parties pulled a majority of the landing seats out of a "bat" after elections a week ago, left a deadlock for control of the landing, upper house of the Danish parliament, but it was settled when the government coalition drew the lucky slip from a 3,000-year-old, bronze-age urn, and won 39 seats to 37.

FASCIST FORCES ARE STOPPED BY WALL OF WATER

Madrid.—A 10-foot fall of water released from Alberche dam by government forces, roared down on a column of Fascists advancing on Madrid and swept many of them to their deaths, it was reported.

The flood, sweeping down from the lifted dam gates near San Martin de Valdeiglesias about 36 miles west of the capital, inundated a Fascist camp to a depth of 10 feet.

The government resorted to the desperate measure in an attempt to repel one section of the Fascists' drive on the capital.

Most of the insurgents' ammunition was reported ruined, and many of their pack mules were said to have been drowned.

The Fascists who escaped were understood to have fled to higher ground to the south. They were reported retreating in disorder.

Government officials, deciding to let loose the flood after steel and gunpowder had failed to stem the Fascists' advance on the capital, said 10,000,000 cubic yards of water were released.

They said they believed San Martin de Valdeiglesias had been inundated and large stores of insurgent guns and trucks, mules and horses destroyed.

Virtually all able-bodied men between the ages of 18 and 45 were drafted to the militia, meanwhile, as the government sent reinforcements to block the advance of Moorish troops toward Toledo.

Evidently well aware of the urgency of stopping the insurgent attack on Toledo, the government launched a counter-offensive from Santa Cruz del Retamar which was reported to have swept the Moors back through Quilomondo to Maqueda.

Ship Cattle East

Eastern Farmers Buying Cattle For Fattening Purposes

Ottawa.—Possibly 100 eastern Canadian farmers are now on the prairies with the object of purchasing cattle and moving them east for fattening, figures available at the department of agriculture disclosed. Many others have made inquiries and are planning to go west to make purchases. The inquiries came from Ontario, Quebec and Maritime provinces as far east as Prince Edward Island.

A movement of cattle from the west to the east has been going on for years. Last year it ran about 100,000 head, and for the first 37 weeks it totalled 71,824 head. This year it is running behind with a total for the first 37 weeks of 60,865 head. It is expected government assistance will bring the movement at least up to last year's figures and probably higher. One cause of the drop has been poor crops in western Ontario where the largest feeding lots are located.

Heavy Wheat Yield

Edmonton.—Threshing 60 bushels an acre from an 11-acre field of Red Bobs wheat, Adam Marks, farming between Bremner and Fort Saskatchewan, stepped into first among high producing grain farmers of Edmonton district. The yield from the Marks farm is the heaviest so far reported in Alberta this season.

He has been named Deputy Minister of the new Department of Mines and Natural Resources which has been brought into being at Ottawa.

Airmen To Carry Out Work In North West Territories

McMurray, Alta.—Sub-atmospheric meteorological observations will be made in the North West Territories during the coming winter by three Royal Canadian Air Force men who arrived here by plane from Winnipeg.

The men—Sergt. R. I. Thomas, pilot; Sergt. P. E. Sorenson, co-pilot, and Corp. L. S. Thompson, mechanic, will be assisted by a meteorological observer.

From their base at Fort Smith, N.W.T., about 500 miles north of Edmonton, the airmen will make daily flights when weather conditions permit, to a height of 15,000 feet where temperature and other conditions will be automatically recorded on a barograph, thermograph and other equipment carried on the aircraft.

The work is to be carried out for the Dominion meteorological service and the United States weather bureau.

Wiping Out Of Taxes

Cancellation Of Debts In Certain Dry Areas

Lethbridge, Alta.—A widespread cancellation of drought area farmers' debt and interest charges, back taxes and a new agreement governing interest rates on future financing in Saskatchewan will be announced within a few days, Hon. J. G. Gardiner, federal minister of agriculture, said in an address to the board of trade here.

These steps, he said, were agreed upon at a recent conference of federal and Saskatchewan government officials in Regina. He was not prepared to state the exact date up to which the cancellations will be effective, but intimated it would be quite recent.

He said the announcement would come from the Saskatchewan government.

The wiping-out of taxes will include all of those owing to municipal, provincial and federal governments, Mr. Gardiner stated. Since the federal government was responsible for bringing in people to settle in areas where making a living was extremely difficult, the whole Dominion would bear the losses arising out of the debt reduction.

Mr. Gardiner then outlined a plan under which settlers would be moved from non-productive land to better land. The drought areas would become federally-owned and would be converted into pasture.

Winnipeg.—Capt. Rev. S. E. Lambert, padre of the Christie Street Soldiers' hospital in Toronto, was re-elected president of the Amputations Association of the Great War, as the three-day sessions of the 14th annual convention were brought to a close. Capt. Lambert will serve his 14th term.

G. E. Tomset, Regina, was elected first vice-president and three Toronto men were returned to the executive council—Capt. E. A. Baker, honorary treasurer, C. J. Brown and Henry Secretary Richard Myers.

Two new members, J. S. McCormick, of Montreal, and F. D. Welch, Vancouver, were elected to the board of directors which also includes W. E. Browne, Ottawa; Robert Wilson, Toronto; E. H. Nulley, Hamilton; Frank Traister, Winnipeg; and N. M. Callaway, Calgary.

ETHIOPIANS ARE ADMITTED TO THE LEAGUE ASSEMBLY

Geneva.—The credentials committee of the League of Nations has decided to recommend that Ethiopian delegates continue to sit in the assembly, and has reversed a previous decision to submit the question of Ethiopia's sovereignty to the world court.

The committee decided in favor of Ethiopian participation in the assembly because of existing doubts as to the delegates' credentials. The Ethiopians, the committee held, should be given the benefit of these doubts.

Haile Selassie and his delegates contented there was an independent government in Ethiopia, despite annexation of the conquered kingdom by Fascist Italy. On the other hand, the Italians have refused to participate in the league proceedings until Ethiopia is erased from membership.

Just before the decision was reached, Foreign Secretary Eden jumped to his feet and exclaimed:

"Enough of this nonsense! There never has been any sufficient ground to unseat the Ethiopian delegation."

Almost all the small nations on the committee fought for the Ethiopians, with Foreign Commissar Litvinoff of Russia also taking a leading role.

At times the discussion became so bitter that one or two states, the names of which were not disclosed, threatened to resign from the league if the Ethiopians were ejected. In some circles, the committee's decision was interpreted as virtually non-recognition of Italy's conquest of Ethiopia.

The effect of these developments upon Italy's attitude may be serious. League sources openly expressed fear that Italy not only will refuse to return to the assembly, but may even resign from the league.

Haile Selassie, the Associated Press learned, rejected a plan under which he would have agreed to withdraw his delegation if some basis for conciliation with Italy was reached on the entire Ethiopian problem.

GIVES SUPPORT TO PLAN TO BRING OUT BRITISH SETTLERS

Saskatoon.—British settlers, brought to Saskatchewan under a well-devised plan, would be of benefit in helping develop resources of the province, was the opinion expressed here by ministers of the provincial government in connection with the Saskatchewan immigration and settlement convention.

Premier W. J. Patterson, speaking at a board of trade dinner for the delegates, saw gain to Saskatchewan by the advent of British settlers. He stated he believed that a policy of immigration, avoiding mistakes made in similar policies in the past, could easily be presented.

"To extend our markets is essential to progress in Canada and we cannot do that by sitting tight on our natural resources," said Hon. George Spence, minister of public works. "Great Britain has the money to develop these resources and the population to bring about the development. Unless something of an all-embracing character is done, we will never be rid of the depression."

Mr. Spence spoke before a regular session of the convention. The early settlement of Saskatchewan was secured for a vigorous plan of immigration, said Mr. Patterson. There had been many mistakes made, yet many of the immigrants had stood the "real test of courage, ability and resourcefulness," and made a great success of it.

The advisability of setting an immigration program was questioned by some in Saskatchewan, the premier stated. There were persons who argued that restricted markets and the struggle for existence of those already here were not conducive to the plan. These thinkers had some force, he realized.

Similarly, there were two camps of thought for finding a solution to the present problem. One camp believed restricted production would make the producer richer, and the other believed the wealth of any nation was in the volume of its production.

Personally, the premier stated, he favored the latter view. The world needed much more produce, for production had by no means overcome consumption, and even consumption needed greater development.

"What is there to gain by restriction of wheat production, for instance," Mr. Patterson asked. "If we restrict production, some other nation will increase production."

Again, the speaker argued that the true picture of Canada's position could not be based on the past five years, when world depression as well as drought conditions had been unfavorable but temporary factors.

Canada had, in effect, in recent years, told Great Britain that its people were not needed here and that its goods were not acceptable.

Recently, the premier stated, that attitude had changed. In England, he had found during a recent visit, there was increased friendliness towards the Dominion. A change in trade and wheat policies had done much to foster that spirit, as well as the Vimy pilgrimage and the Hornby plan of immigration, which was being considered by many Britishers.

Outlining how the immigration question was brought before the Saskatchewan legislature last spring, Mr. Spence said the legislators had not suggested any plan of immigration but had based their plea to the federal house on three principles, that any scheme be financed by Great Britain, that proper reception and care after arrival be given settlers, and that if immigrants failed after a fair trial they be repatriated rather than deported to their native lands.

There had been a deplorable lack of co-operation by Canadians with respect to building of empire in past years, the minister asserted, adding, "Canada must start to accept its obligations as part of the empire."

Free movement of goods and services, of capital and credit, and of populations was vital in empire co-operation and were factors Canada had not been pleased to recognize.
